Statement from BMS World Mission and Bristol Baptist College

BMS World Mission and Bristol Baptist College have begun a conversation aimed at exploring ways in which the College and the BMS International Mission Centre in Birmingham might work more intentionally together.

Both organisations recognise that each could enhance the goals of the other. Drawing upon our respective areas of expertise in cross-cultural mission and theological formation, we believe this could be a creative collaboration.

These discussions are in the earliest stages, and are likely to be ongoing for some time to come but it is our desire to be open about the conversation now underway.
